

'Till ten'

We used to play 'hide and seek'
I loved it,
you just liked it.
I used to run from you,
and you
used to look for me.
You always found me,
it was great.

We were like little kids,
playing 'round,
caring 'bout nothing
but us.

Then,
a stranger appeared,
I became curious,
you rejected it.
I got closer,
you got farther.

You didn't care anymore,
I never stop caring.

I played 'hide and seek' again,
counted 'till ten,
you turned your back
to me.
I counted 'till ten,
but you
weren't there.
I count 'till ten
and you never came.

I counted 'till ten
for the last
time
but again,
you weren't there.
